The Universal Enemy
Jihad, Empire, and the Challenge of Solidarity
DARRYL LI
Stanford Studies in Middle Eastern and Islamic Societies and Cultures
December 2019 336pp
9780804792370 £77.00 / $90.00 HB
STANFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

This book argues that transnational jihadists are engaged in their own form of universalism: these fighters struggle to realize an Islamist vision directed at all of humanity. Developed from more than a decade of research with former fighters, Li explores the relationship between jihad and American empire to shed critical light on both.
